Harbord Village meets 2021 with hope and resilience

Anne Fleming

Spring has come to Harbord Village as we teeter on the edge of a third COVID-19 wave. Residents, schools, organizations, and businesses have found ways to manage amidst the restrictions. Slowly but surely, we start to get vaccinated and develop a sense of hope.

The Plant Fair became a virtual seed exchange, pumpkins and house decorations went online, students took classes outside, restaurants and food banks

Our first Zoom AGM, in October 2020

HVRA 2021 Spring General Meeting

Tuesday, May 18, 7–9 p.m.

Zoom information: <https://harbordvillage.com/event/spring-meeting-tue-18-may/>

Join us for our 2021 Spring General Meeting! We are pleased to announce our guest speaker will be a local resident presenting on a subject of critical importance to us both as individuals and as a community.

Speaker: Colin Furness, Infection Control Epidemiologist and Assistant Professor of Information, University of Toronto

Topic: "What COVID can teach us about community"

We will also conduct regular business, including financial and other reports, plus ratification of constitutional amendments. There will be breakout rooms for area reps to lead discussion of issues important to each area of Harbord Village. Finally, we will honour our most recent Community Builder Award winners.

This is a great way to meet your neighbours, find out what is happening in your community, contribute, and be involved. All are welcome to attend but only paid up HVRA members will be able to vote—so be sure to renew before the meeting! (Check your membership status at <https://harbordvillage.com/membership/>—and invite your neighbours to join!)

alike turned to takeout service. HVRA held its first ever virtual Fall AGM, using Zoom technology for area caucuses and voting.

HV saw some dramatic changes. A new park taking shape at the old Robert St. field as part of the U of T redevelopment will add some much-needed public green space, Kensington Hospice is expanding, and the new Waverley tower on Spadina is nearing completion. Many city initiatives were held up due to COVID but we're looking forward to more trees and a renewed King Eddy yard.

It has been heartening to see neighbours coming through for each other. Our Community Builder Award honorees, who were already doing important work, were thrust into the spotlight and have been pulling even harder to get our community through this unprecedented time.

We welcomed three new members to the board last fall, all jumping right in to seek out new members and support old ones, and reach out to community organizations within our boundaries. Our eblast began highlighting locals who make a difference in their own way—watch for more profiles as we head into spring and summer.

Finally, our regular events will look different again this year, though we have a better handle on how to manage with restrictions. As always, we want to assure HV residents that they are not alone during this difficult time; together we will continue to make it through.

Supporting community organizations

Shafeeq Armstrong

It's been a challenging year for everyone, some more than others, as the pandemic has had a disproportionate impact on certain groups. Throughout the past several months HVRA has been connecting and engaging with different social service organizations in our neighbourhood to find out how we can continue to support our community members who are most vulnerable, including people experiencing homelessness and people in nursing homes—staff and residents.

In December and January, we worked with Kensington Gardens to highlight and promote their fundraiser to the Harbord Village community for a towel warming cabinet, which helps their residents stay comfortable and warm after bathing. Additionally, we connected with the Fork York Food Bank and Scott Mission to promote their fundraising campaigns. As we move into spring with the light at the end of the tunnel it is important that we continue to support those in challenging situations.

Thanks, Fort York Food Bank volunteers

Area reports

Northwest

Christian Mueller & Shafeeq Armstrong

Despite the pandemic, good food options remained a constant along our stretch of Bloor St., with several new restaurants opening. Another constant is the many construction projects still ongoing. These include two major rebuilds on Brunswick as well as improvements to the Tranzac Club, whose GM has announced that “it’s going to be amazing” when complete. Spring also means warm weather sights like flowers blooming and more people coming out (safely) to enjoy our area.

Southwest

Jane Perdue & Bob Stamboula

We have been engaging with King Edward Public School (KE). We helped with their request for help from the City for its Yard Revitalization Project. In turn, a Community Access Agreement for access to the KE field and playground is in the works. KE welcomed us onto their design team for community input strengthening our partnership.

St. Stephen’s Childcare at KE replaced its damaged wood playground fence in March with a less than beautiful metal link fence. We will connect with them to discuss ways to improve its appearance.

We also hope to refresh greening efforts on Croft Street this spring.

Southcentral

Susan McDonald & Simon Coleman

Kensington Gardens (KG) renovations will finish by December and result in new hospice residential rooms, community room and library, kitchen area and outdoor access to newly landscaped areas. See kensingtonhealth.org/construction.

The long-awaited resurfacing of Brunswick Ave. north of College is delayed until KG outdoor construction is complete.

Repairs were made to Doctors’ Parkette at College and Brunswick. SC volunteers continue to remove garbage from the parkette when possible.

In October 15 new trees were planted on Major St. between College and Bloor, and 40 more trees elsewhere in HV. This is part of a City Forestry replanting effort, to double HV’s tree canopy by 2040.

Northeast

Carolee Orme & Nick Provart

Lots of construction! U of T Robert St. field and community area will be done this spring. 698 Spadina façade retention/stabilization and demolition started in May, and new construction in summer. A new gas station is in progress at 132 Harbord. HVRA was involved to mitigate operational impacts to neighbours. At 666 Spadina, there is concrete work until May to reinforce the parking garage slab, and excavation till the fall. Park grading at north end is done. The Councillor’s office will work with Parks on a new design. And balcony work is wrapping up—finally!

Southeast

Gina Buonaguro & Cathy Merkley

SE was very quiet over the winter due to COVID-19 and the cold weather. Luckily, essential stores and restaurants remained open for pickup or delivery.

The Waverley, a 17-storey mid-rise apartment complex, is ready to open this spring. It will gently densify the corner of Spadina and College and provide much-needed rental inventory with 166 units in a variety of sizes. Amenities such as rooftop pool, yoga studio, co-working space, electric car charging, bike repair, and cafe make it a welcome addition to HV.

Community events

Despite COVID-19 we still find ways to safely and creatively hold events that foster our sense of community.

Garden Group

Margaret Procter

Though we can't meet in groups, we can still garden together through online connections. Instead of weekly social strolls to admire local gardens, walkers can send photos to gardeners@harbordvillage.com for posting on the Gardeners' webpage at harbordvillage.com/projects/greening/hvgardeners/#strollphotos for all to enjoy.

Our 120 or so members also share ideas, questions, and plants via email. About 20 eblast messages go out each year. Contact gardeners@harbordvillage.com to join the mailing list.

We likely won't hold a Plant Fair in June, but the spring and summer messages will list seeds, seedlings, and perennial cuttings for sharing via "contactless" porch pickups. Gardeners need other gardeners!

Farmers Market

Gus Sinclair

The Market Advisory Committee in consultation with our partner, Farmers' Markets Ontario, have agreed that the weekly Bloor Borden Market will return again this year and, if all goes well, it will run from Wednesday, June 2, 3-7 p.m., to Wednesday, October 20.

The proposed opening may be delayed if a more serious COVID lockdown is invoked by the province.

We do not yet have a firm take on how many farmers will attend but our sense is that at least as many as came last year (10) will come again this year.

Finally, because we cannot guarantee the required social distancing, we will be requiring masks be worn inside the roped off market area, and we ask shoppers to enter from the Borden entrance and exit through the west side of the market. See you in June.

Spring Cleanup

Anne Fleming

Most years we hold a Spring Cleanup in late April to help beautify HV after the winter. Thanks to organizer Kerry Clare and all who participated in this year's socially distanced DIY version. Watch for future eblasts for 2022!

Pumpkinfest

Lena Mortensen

Pumpkinfest will run in a modified COVID-safe form again this year. In 2020, crowds of strollers on Harbord St. were replaced with a "virtual" Pumpkinfest along with the first annual Halloween Decorating Contest. Resident decorators created inventive displays on their porches and lawns, with prizes donated by the HV BIA. Following tradition, all were encouraged to relight their jack-o'-lanterns on Nov. 1 for neighbours to enjoy on a stroll or online on our website. Stay tuned for upcoming details of this year's iteration.

AGM 2020

Our AGM, held October 22, 2020, via Zoom, featured Board elections, guest speakers Councillor Mike Layton and MPP Jessica Bell, Community Builder Awards, and more.

Fall fun forecasted

Cathy Merkley

Our Fall Fair was usually on the first Sunday after Labour Day. Due to COVID-19, the fate of a Fall Fair in 2021 is a little uncertain. Do not despair! We are finding alternative ways to celebrate our community and share some time together.

HVRA will continue to encourage support for local businesses through community engagement. And, as the weather warms up, watch for sidewalk chalk art created by younger residents as you make your way to a self-directed art tour in our many laneways. We are so fortunate to have amazing artistic talent in our midst, including singers, songwriters, poets, writers and symphony musicians. Where safe distance permits, we will organize pop-up performances in laneways, on porches, and in open spaces. Audiences can enjoy live performances while musicians and artists can do what they love—perform for you!

Be on the lookout for updates.

Laneway art

The arts continue in HV

Bloor St. art installation

Christian Mueller

Three of our Bloor St. parkettes are featuring a temporary art installation titled "Light Strainers," with contemporary sculptures alluding to challenges that local restaurants currently face.

Commissioned by the Bloor Annex BIA and Steps After Dark, these were created by Toronto-based multidisciplinary artistic team Chris Foster and Layne Hinton. In their own words, "Together they create site-responsive installations that investigate the histories, materials, and architectures of the built environment."

The sculptures feature kitchen colanders arranged in a rotating column through which light is projected, creating a mesmerizing loop of shifting light and shadow patterns, especially at night. Look out for them on your next stroll.

NAGs Players

Jennifer Fahy

I am a new resident to this great neighbourhood, living near the Tranzac Club, where I frequently perform with the NAGs Players, as an actor and director.

The NAGs can't wait to return to the Tranzac when the pandemic is over. In the meantime we offer an online season of exciting events to keep our community together and spread joy in these times.

We have presented a number of Zoom performances free of charge. To find upcoming shows, check our website (www.nagsplayers.com) and register for a virtual performance. You can also find us on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram.

City matters

Bob Stambula

Harvard Village has no lack of ideas, initiatives, and service needs. The City’s scorecard in response is a mixed bag.

Progress on sidewalk snow clearing may be stalled by the one-year tendering time for equipment like the plow shown in the photo below. Transportation Services, in response to a Matlow/ Layton Council motion, promised a report this spring on how to clear downtown neighbourhood sidewalks next winter.

After much effort, Forestry planted 60 replacement trees on the City right of way; hundreds more are needed.

The HVRA Net-Zero Committee established last year is working well with City staff—connecting with other groups, resources and ideas.

Our request for “Shared Streets” in Harbord Village last year was made before the program was even announced (as a pandemic health measure), yet we were not accepted. Recently Council failed to accept Councillor Layton’s effort to get us in.

Adding a 1-metre boulevard throughout Harbord Village would make way for 1,000 new trees, calm traffic, separate cars from people, allow for more social distancing, and create room for snow piles. It’s not too good to be true. It’s easily done by pouring new curbs, removing asphalt and adding soil. Storm sewers are not replaced, they’re incorporated into the boulevard and are better for cyclists.

While we have very limited park space, compared to other areas of the City, HVRA has made strides everywhere it can, like Doctors Parkette and the Central Tech Public Space (Harbord & Bathurst). And more is on the way:

- The new parkette at Sussex & Spadina.
- The new public space at Robert & Sussex, and new soccer field.
- HVRA is partnering with the City and the TDSB to finalize a Community Access Agreement for public access to the grounds of King Edward School.

Is there something here that you’d like to champion? Is there something missing? Emailing us at board@harbordvillage.com and our Councillor (councillor\_layton@toronto.ca) is a good start to getting involved.

HVRA NetZero projects

Susan McDonald

The City of Toronto has declared that we are in a climate emergency—we must massively reduce our greenhouse gas emissions, starting now, if we are to avert disaster. The City wants to see a 65% emissions reduction by 2030, and their complete elimination by 2050. But as over half of those emissions come from residents’ homes and cars, the City needs us to do our part to make this happen. We will need to shift away from natural gas to heat our homes, and from gasoline-fuelled forms of transportation.

Since HVRA has a long history of undertaking energy efficiency projects in the neighbourhood, we created the NetZero Committee to facilitate our community’s effort to meet these goals of reducing, and ultimately eliminating, our greenhouse gas emissions. How? The NetZero Committee currently has two long-term projects. One focuses on retrofitting Harbord Village homes to improve their energy efficiency and reduce their emissions. The other aims to assist residents in selecting transportation alternatives to their gas-powered vehicles.

The Retrofit Project plans to provide residents with comprehensive guidance in how to retrofit their houses to achieve these carbon emission reductions. Energy retrofits for our Harbord Village houses typically begin with: air sealing, enhanced insulation, and window/door retrofits to increase the overall efficiency of the house’s HVAC systems. Once a home’s efficiency has been tightened up, the Retrofit Project will assist residents in making the switch away from carbon emitting forms of heating (such as natural gas) by facilitating the selection and installation of new systems which do not produce carbon emissions (such as heat pumps and solar water heaters). The project will communicate the benefits of this new technology and the latest financial incentives to install it (grants, rebates and loans). It will also pursue discounted bulk purchase pricing for the neighbourhood and connect homeowners with experienced and recommended installers.

Since approximately 30% of Toronto’s carbon emissions come from gasoline-powered transportation, the Electric Vehicle Project seeks to reduce our community’s dependence upon these vehicles. Its 2025 goal is for 50% of the new vehicles purchased in Harbord Village to be electric and to increase the number of accessible charging stations in the neighbourhood. First, the group seeks to educate the neighbourhood about electric vehicles (EVs): their maintenance, operating costs, driving performance and typical driving ranges. And to encourage drivers to make the switch, the group will create opportunities for Harbord Villagers to meet existing EV owners, hear about their experiences, and to test drive the vehicles for themselves. In addition to encouraging the adoption of EVs, the group also aims to reduce gasoline-fuelled vehicle use through the adoption of alternatives, such as electric assist bicycles and car share programs. Ultimately, the project hopes to partner with local dealers to facilitate bulk-buys for residents, both of EVs and electric assist bicycles.

Help by filling out our survey!

To ensure these projects will best serve the needs of Harbord Village residents we need you to fill out our survey: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/hvra-survey-2021>.

Everyone who completes the survey will be eligible to win a free pizza from the Victory Café on Bloor Street.

Be green

Robert Stambula

Even when much of the world is out of our control, there's still much we can do in: in our yards, laneways, balconies, homes and neighbourhood to BE GREEN. We are all caretakers of a sort for the season that we are here. Let's leave a marker of good stewardship even as we mourn losses. BE GREEN!

Thinking GREEN opens us up to creativity and a world of possibilities. Here are just a few:

Can you remove that hardscaping in the yard? Let the earth breathe and soak up the storm water instead of your basement. Ground cover is maintenance free. Better yet, build a garden: bee or butterfly friendly, herbs or vegetables. Or use permeable pavers if needed.

Is there room for a tree in front or out back? Our tree canopy is in serious decline, under our watch, and needs attention. There are plenty of sources for free trees. Stay tuned for our Councillor's backyard tree planting initiative and call 311 to let the City know you have a home for a front yard tree. And if you notice a new tree the City has planted, please help water it.

Have you disconnected your downspouts as the City requires to avoid flooding?

Do you know about our laneway greening initiatives and gardeners group? They share plants and knowledge. Get involved.

How about your carbon footprint? Time for car sharing to replace a seldom-used car? That eyesore of a garage is just the added outdoor space that you need. Look for initiatives of our Net- Zero Committee. Can an electric heat pump really replace my gas furnace? You'd be surprised.

Shop/eat local. Support our farmers' market, local grocers, restaurants and our many shops that are just steps away—all part of the very fabric of our neighbourhood that makes it what it is.

BE GREEN and only be limited by your imagination. Let us know what you're doing and what great ideas we've missed.

Safe streets

Shafeeq Armstrong

HVRA continues to engage with Councillor Layton's office and the City on various safe street initiatives and projects. They've let us know that:

- They've received our request to get transportation to install proper stop lines at a variety of important intersections throughout the neighbourhood, such as the one at Borden/Sussex this spring.
- The utility work on the lower section of Brunswick is the first step in the planned road resurfacing.
- The road resurfacing will follow the current work early spring, then the pavement markings will proceed. Road work will take place alongside any construction at 45 Brunswick.
- They are finalizing the design of the College/ Borden intersection and believe the construction of the intersection and Borden reconstruction (including raised intersection) will move forward this year. They are also working on adjusting the curb bump-outs to give a little more wiggle room for all.

We look forward to continuing to advocate for safety improvements to our neighbourhood and will keep everyone updated with our progress!

Development proposals of interest*

Sue Dexter & Carolee Orme

Development is constant in and around HV, ranging from the soon-to-be-open Waverley (on the site of the old music venue) to the following future projects:

350 Bloor St. West

A 35-storey development is proposed for the north side of Bloor, extending east from Shoppers Drug Mart to Spadina and north to beyond the subway entrance. There will be 380 residential units, office and retail space, and an “urban living room” ground-level public space extending the length of the Spadina frontage connecting to the subway entrance. A working group has formed to ensure public concerns are brought forward before approval.

419–431 College St.

The City is reviewing a proposal for a 13-storey building at the southeast corner of Bathurst and College (Sneaky Dee’s and adjacent properties). 169 residential units will be constructed atop retail/commercial units, including space for a potential music venue. A public consultation was held in January, and a working group formed. The 2017 College Street Study determined the south side of College was appropriate for mid-rise development, while the north side (in HV) should retain its main street character with a 6-storey height limit.

225 Brunswick Ave.

Committee of Adjustment has approved seven dwelling units in the former chapel converted to synagogue at the corner of Brunswick and Sussex. Plans approved by Heritage Preservation Services called for raising the roof of the existing building. The approval has been appealed to Toronto Local Appeal Body.

Community Builder Awards Spring 2021

Gus Sinclair

Colin Furness

Colin Furness has become famous across Canada as a much-needed and mostly heeded voice on how we are doing with the COVID pandemic. He is an Assistant Professor at U of T and holds a Master of Epidemiology from the Dalla Lana School of Public Health, where he now holds a status cross-appointment as Assistant Professor of Health Informatics. Since January, 2020, Colin has done over 1,000 media interviews, including the CBC, the Toronto Star, the Globe & Mail, and the New York Times.

Closer to home, Colin is a past member of the Board of HVRA and now sits on the HVRA Constitution and Nominations Committee.

Andre Roy

Andre Roy has lived in HV all his life. He was a French immersion student at King Edward Public School and Student Council President at Harbord Collegiate. His dedication to municipal politics and neighbourhood engagement led him to attain a degree in City Studies from the U of T in 2020. Over the years, Andre has worked on many political campaigns at all levels of government and connected with many HV residents about their concerns. He volunteers at the HVRA Community Clean-up and Fall Fair and attends local hearings on construction projects and parks. We are proud to have this civic-minded young man in our community!

Kensington Health

Kensington Health is a not-for-profit, community-based model of providing specialized healthcare to its clients. Their ethos is to recognize the symbiotic relationships among leadership, staff, residents and their families together with the community. This fosters the belief that good outcomes arise when all know and trust that all will perform at their utmost.

The COVID-19 pandemic has been an incredible challenge for Kensington with their model tested to the fullest. With the extraordinary leadership of CEO John Yip, they have performed miraculously. Although there is still more work to do and the threat is not over, we applaud the Kensington Team!
